I have one publication with the name of “An improved fault recovery scheme to achieve fault-tolerance in resource constrained wireless sensor networks” which is under review. During my university life I have attended lots of seminars and workshops from which I have gained lots of experience.

For practical experience, I am teaching for about 4.5 years at different Schools and Colleges and I believe my dream job as to be a University lecturer, who is well aware of practical and theoretical aspects of concern subject.
